The West Virginia State Fair Association has announced its speed programme for the races during the 1895 fair, beginning September 3 and closing September 6. The association is show ing added liberality this year in hanging up purses for the horsemen, and the result will be that the quality of the trotters and pacers will be better than seen at any previous state fair-fully as good, in fact, as were seen at the recent spring meeting of the Wheeling Driving Club. The programme follows:

Altogether, the lowers of good horse racing can coagratulate themselves on the prospect for high class sport next September. BASE BALL MATTERS,

The Great Contests To-day-Future of the Inter-State League.

This morning at 10 o'clock and this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock two great base ball battles will be opened. The contesting teams are the Twin Cities and Wheeling. They led all the others in the first series of the Inter-State season, the first series of the Inter-State season, but both, too, secured a bad start in the secsond series but are now coming up the ladder, both having won five out of the last six games played. If one team can take two victories to-day the other will get a good hard push toward the bottom while the successful team will go up a notch or two in the race. The Wheelings will endeavor to take both games. Kane and Wright will be the pitchers in the morning and in the afternoon Anderson or Kane and Reddy or Minnehan will do the twirling. A meeting of the Iron and Oil league has been called to convene to morrow at New Castle, Pa., and while the expected in the shape of the dissolution of the league may happen, it is not improbable that clubs will come in in the places that will be made vacant by the withdrawal of Sharon and Warren. A scheme was on foot to have a represenwithdrawal of Sharon and Warren. A scheme was on foot to have a representative of the Inter-state league at the Iron and Oil meeting for the purpose of arranging for the amalgamation of the two organizations, but as the lather with the present six clubs is on a firm basis and doing very well, the idea has been abandoned.

The crisis in the Iron and Oil League is easily explained by the fact that the $600 salary limit has been openly violated in every town, and as the population to draw from was limited, expenses outstripped receipts at an alarming gait. A comparison of the strength of the two leagues is interesting and is given below, the figures being the population of the several towns:

Inter-state League—Wheeling, 60,000; Columbus 100,000; Twin Cities, 10,000; Kenton, 6,000; Lima, 18,000; Findlay, 20,000; total 214,000.
